Meeting Plans Civil Defence

Civil defence authorities from British Columbia and the United States Pacific Northwest met in Seattle yesterday, it was announced by Premier Byron Johnson.

The Premier did not indicate specifically the purpose of the meeting but it was presumed that it would be to tighten and co-ordinate civil defence plans in coastal areas in view of the tense situation in Korea.

DEFENCE COMMITTEE

Premier Johnson also announced the formation of a provincial civil defence committee under the direction of Education Minister W. T. Straith.

Its members are R. A. Bennington, deputy provincial secretary and retired R.C.M. captain, who will act as chairman; Dr. G. T. Amyot, deputy minister of health; Evan Jones, deputy minister of public works; and Percy C. Richards, executive assistant to the Premier.

The committee, said the Premier, will be expanded to take in other personnel when the requirements of civil defence are more fully known. He said the extension was expected soon, however.

The conference in Seattle yesterday was arranged at the request of the Civil Defence Department at Ottawa.

POLICE ATTEND

Also attending the conference are F. H. Harrison, substituting for Mr. Jones; Sub-inspector Carl Ladux, British Columbia Police; Mayor Percy E. George and Police Chief Walter Mulligan of Vancouver.

In making the announcement, Premier Johnson explained that the civil defence organization was being built along the lines laid down by the Civil Defence Department at Ottawa under the direction of Major-General F. P. Worthington, civil defence co-ordinator.

He explained the organization will utilize key men in public service who will prepare the skeletons of sub-organizations, which could be quickly expanded in case of emergency.

Labor Unrest Continues On Many Fronts in U.K.

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters).—Though several thousand strikers returned to work today, there was little slackening of the tension on Britain's troubled industrial front.

In London's Central Meat Market normal working was resumed after a 17-day stoppage by meat and market provision distribution employees over raises for lower-paid workers. The dispute had brought more than 5,000 out on strike, deprived millions of Londoners of their full rations and led to drafting of 2,700 soldiers and airmen into the market.

FURTHER TROUBLE
 But almost immediately there was further trouble. Some of the strikers had left trucks in different parts of the country when they stopped work. Today the employers told them to bring the trucks back to London—and said they would have to pay their own fares to reach the trucks.

The drivers concerned at once resumed their strike. The employers said 150 men are involved, but a strike leader claimed 300 in the figure.

In Scotland, a strike of coal miners which began ten days ago in protest against the National Coal Board's refusal to grant pay raises to lower-paid men, showed little sign of ending. Work was resumed at 18 collieries, but the total number of men out, about 15,000, remained nearly the same.

STRIKE NOTICE

In South Wales, where 1,300 miners are on strike in a similar dispute, a coal-field conference voted today to give formal notice of an intended general stoppage.

The 702,000 South Wales miners object to increases in fares on some of the buses which carry them to their pits. On July 31 they will give 14 days' notice of strike action. In such circumstances, the Ministry of Labor invariably intervenes to secure arbitration.

There are also signs of impending wage demands from a number of rail unions.

South Africa Defies U.N.

LONDON, July 12 (AP).—The Union of South Africa intends to absorb Southwest Africa into her own territory in defiance of the United Nations and the International Court of Justice, an official made clear today.

Eric Louw, South African Minister for Economic Affairs who is temporarily in London, said in a statement that "neither the United Nations nor the Union are bound by the advisory opinion" of the International Court of Justice. He added that South Africa "does not consider herself under any obligation to render reports" of her administration to the U.N.

The Hague Court declared unanimously yesterday that Southwest Africa remains under the International Mandate assumed by the Union in 1920.

Four More Like This Were Enough

This fancy riding exhibition by Jack Hartell of Strathmore lasted for five jumps before he was bucked off a Brahma bull at Calgary Stampede on Monday afternoon. Only four of the 16 bull riders stayed on top in what turned out to be the feature event of the Stampede program.

Esquimalt Destroyers Become Part of Task Force for Korea

From C.P. and A.P. Dispatches

The three Canadian destroyers which left Esquimalt last week yesterday became part of a United States naval task force assembling at Pearl Harbor for action in Korea.

The three destroyers, Cayuga, Sioux and Albatross, arrived at Pearl Harbor yesterday. Almost simultaneously it was announced in Ottawa that they had been turned over to United Nations command and would probably sail for Korean action Friday.

Their speed, exact destination and duties will depend on orders from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U.N. commander, but they are expected to be in action within two weeks, buttressing the naval blockade of Communist North Korea and bombarding targets ashore.

TO FLY U.N. FLAG

They will fly the blue and white U.N. flag as well as the Canadian ensign.

Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson stressed to reporters that Canada is making the warships—the Cayuga, Albatross and Sioux—available only as part of a general U.N. police action against aggression and only for the Korean war.

"For the defence of the Republic of (South) Korea."

They could not, for instance, be used to support American naval action to block the Chinese Communist off from Formosa, Mr. Pearson told a press conference.

He said the three destroyers could be used, if Gen. MacArthur so desired, to blast targets in North Korea or to engage enemy ships outside the immediate South Korean waters.

OF REAL VALUE

Mr. Pearson said the destroyers will be of "real value" to Gen. MacArthur. When a reporter asked if, in the face of American and British strength, they would not be largely a token force, he said the situation is such that they will be "a very effective" aid.

Mr. Pearson said the three destroyers probably won't sail directly to Korea but will halt at Guam or some other U.S. naval base to refuel again. It is 6,000 miles from Esquimalt to Korea.

Child Regains Consciousness

Nine-year-old Shirley Gordon, 2962 Scott Street, who has been in critical condition in Jubilee Hospital as the result of a truck accident on Shelbourne Street last Friday, regained consciousness about 5:30 o'clock last night, according to hospital officials.

They said there was no panic.

The passengers showed disappointment at the shortness of their voyage and stood together chatting on the wharf awaiting transportation back to Quebec.

One group of passengers said they were attending a moving picture and that suddenly the screen grew fuzzy. Then there was a big jolt and an announcement that the ship was aground.

The ship's lights still were on late tonight. It seemed as if the ship was sitting with its prow right up on shore. It listed slightly to starboard.

Witnesses said that at the time of the accident the ship was passing the island to avoid the inevitable crash," said Joseph Gregoire, manager of the Bellevue Hotel. "But then it happened. The ship ploughed around with a terrible roar."

The Franconia is well known to world travelers and she has another claim to fame.

During the historic Yalta conference, the Franconia served as Winston Churchill's headquarters.

Her maiden voyage to Quebec was made from Liverpool June 11, 1949.

Reason for the accident—which left the Franconia tilted up on the shore with a large section of her under-water hull in view—was not immediately known as Cunard officials concentrated on the job of taking off passengers.

Quebecers who Summer on the island were strolling around brightly lit hotel verandas when they saw the huge hull emerge from the dusk and swing in closer to shore than usual.

"It seemed as if suddenly the ship was swung to starboard away from the island to avoid the inevitable crash," said Joseph Gregoire, manager of the Bellevue Hotel. "But then it happened. The ship ploughed around with a terrible roar."

Mask Sketches at Provincial Archives

Miss Pamela Alder shows a few of grotesque sketches of Indian masks on display at Provincial Archives this month. They were presented to Archives by Miss D. G. Lent, Calgary artist. At far left is a Haida mask, showing the use of labret, similar to those used by native women of Africa to extend lower lip. The effect in aged women is said to have been hideous. Second from left is Bella-Coola-Salish mask, which makes use of circle-act, similar to that of New Zealand Maoris. Third is Kwakwaka'wakw mask, taken from grave at Bella Coola in 1893. Fourth, Tsimshian mask, purporting to represent a Spanish "Don," with moustache and goatee, relic of days when Spaniards sailed Vancouver Island's coastal waters. In Miss Alder's hand is Tsimshian mask, representing mixture of man and mounted eagle. It was constructed of cedar and covered with deer skin.

Korean Briefs

TOKIO, July 13 (Thursday) (INS).—Gen. MacArthur today named Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army and noted as an expert in tank warfare, as head of American ground forces in Korea.

Walker's World War tank battles against the Nazis turned the carefully-planned German armored strategy into confusion and earned him the Distinguished Service Cross.

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP).—Baltimore Sun correspondent Philip Potter, radioed from Korea that a division of enemy troops tentatively identified as "Chinese" Communists landed yesterday south of United States lines on the East Coast.

The correspondent qualified the identification by saying it has been officially established that North Korean troops killed in an air raid last week were wearing Chinese Communist uniforms and at least one division of North Koreans formerly operated with the Communists in Manchuria.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., July 13 (INS).—The United Nations called today for a halt in atrocities in the Korean fighting and backed Supreme Commander Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a demand that the North Koreans observe the rules of civilized warfare.

Secretary General Trygve Lie sent the urgent appeal to both North and South Korea, impressing upon them the necessity of strictly observing the Geneva Convention of war prisoners, casualties and civilians and asking both sides to accept the services of International Red Cross observers.

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP).—The Canadian Government is not now considering further aid to Korea beyond the dispatch of three destroyers already on the way.

Parliament would be called on for approval before Canada sent aid involving different types of fighting forces, including ground and air personnel.

These points were made clear today at a press conference in which External Affairs Minister Pearson, who is acting defence minister, reviewed the Korean situation and Canada's contribution.

LONDON, July 13 (AP).—A Government spokesman today said British air forces at Singapore "are sufficient to meet present commitments" in the Far East crisis.

Arthur Henderson, secretary for air, made the statement in the House of Commons. He had been asked by Conservative E. E. Bullin whether the R.A.F. in Singapore is adequate "to meet all eventualities."

WINNIPEG, July 13 (CP).—British probably could not spare ground troops for the United Nations forces in Korea if she were asked to do so, Patrick Gordon-Walker, British Commonwealth relations secretary, said at a press conference here yesterday.

Mr. Gordon-Walker, crossing Canada en route to Australia, told Winnipeg reporters that Britain's troop supply is being used to wage war against Communists in Malaya, to garrison Hongkong and for occupation duty in Germany.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Twenty-six-year-old Joseph J. Connors was asked by detectives today what he did for a living.

From the police lineup, Connors gave a surprisingly straight answer. "Burglary," he said.

Uncle Accused Of Attacking Young Woman

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13 (INS).—The uncle of a San Francisco advertising agency secretary bludgeoned almost to death last month, was arrested today.

The injured girl, 25-year-old Mary McIntyre, formerly of Victoria, accused her uncle in written answers to police questions at her bedside in St. Francis Hospital, where she has been recovering from the savage attack of more than a month ago.

Miss McIntyre was unconscious for two weeks and even now is unable to speak because of the heavy blows on her head.

Police immediately arrested the uncle, Douglas Carapato, 46, an egg salesman, whose story has been that he found her unconscious after receiving a mysterious phone call that she had been hurt.

Chief homicide Inspector Frank Ahern, who conducted the dramatic exchange of questions and answers with the girl, said she gave a "quarrel" as the motive for the attack.

British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island have replied to a Federal invitation to submit problems for discussion.

Premier Byron Johnson of British Columbia said in a letter to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent he would like to see discussions on social security "touch on such matters as responsibility for employable unemployed and for unemployable persons."

Profit From Gift Apples Going to Food Subsidies

LONDON, July 13 (CP).—A £200,000 ($1,550,000) profit from British Columbia gift apples will be used to keep British food prices down, Food Minister Maurice Webb said today.

Webb told the House of Commons Canadian would "resent" it if money gained from the sale of apples were returned to the Dominion. It had been decided to retain the profit as a contribution to British food subsidies, which now run about £400,000,000 a year.

"I have given careful consideration to many suggestions for using the profit from this most generous and acceptable gift, but one must bear in mind that it was clearly the wish of the donors of the apples that any ensuing profit should go to the citizens of the United Kingdom," Webb said.

"They would not wish, and might resent, the return of the profit to Canada in any form."

CANADIANS CONSULTED

Anthony Marlowe, Conservative member for Hove, asked whether Webb had consulted anybody in Canada. The minister repeated that Canadians had been consulted and would "rather resent" it if the money were returned.

Today's episode was the latest installment in a series of stories that the Opposition has been following closely ever since the gift of 1,000,000 bushels of apples from British Columbia was first announced.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many varieties of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do you live in fear of this happening to you? You sprinkle a little PASTERIN, the famous tooth-binder, on your plates. PASTERIN binds teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Don't you see? Check "false teeth" (dentures) with PASTERIN at any drug store.

Koreans From U.S.S.R. Said Bolstering Invasion

TOKIO, July 13 (THURSDAY) (INS).—Official informants said today that Soviet Russia is utilizing Asiatic Koreans removed from their homeland for several generations to help her satellites in the battle against the West democracies.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced yesterday that the 15th North Korean division in the front lines in the Chungju area, 31 miles northeast of threatened Taejon, includes many who fought under the Chinese Communist banner.

The emphasis MacArthur put on that fact led to the question: "Where do they come from?"

TWO SOURCES

The Russians have two main sources for expatriate Korean manpower to back up the Russian-trained North Korean war machine.

These sources are in the Chientao area of Manchuria, immediately north of the Yalu River border between North Korea and Manchuria, and in Central Asia, where perhaps a half million Koreans fled from Japanese rule in 1937.

In 1942 the Japanese officially estimated that 1,428,780 Koreans were in Manchuria.

The Koreans settled the Chientao area about the turn of the century. These Koreans retained their own language and were not bothered by Chinese or Japanese authorities because the area they settled was too wild for easy control, had no railways or even highways.

Officials at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters are convinced that the Chinese Communists conscripted the youths from the Chientao area and put them into their Communist army as Korean units because of their common language.

The Chientao area is northeast of Antung, which is just across the frontier of Northwest Korea. The Koreans in that district are physically tough farmers and hunters, men who have grown hardy by fighting for existence in an undeveloped area of weather extremes.

The Koreans who went to Russia in 1937 had an entirely different experience. They became Russian citizens, adopted Russian ways and learned Russian techniques.

The pick of these Russian-trained Koreans were sent back to North Korea soon after the Pacific war ended to take their places as leaders in the communities.

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP).—A definite date for the general Dominion-Provincial conference this autumn now tentatively scheduled for "September or October"—probably will be fixed after the committee of attorneys-general meets August 21, a source close to the Government said today.

That committee, formed at the Dominion-Provincial constitutional conference last January, will study proposals for transferring from the United Kingdom to Canada the power to make all amendments to the Canadian constitution.

The source said the committee's meetings might have a bearing on the date of the general conference.

All provinces have indicated they will attend the Fall conference, although Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec has not stated definitely that his Government will be represented.

Arthur Henderson, secretary for air, made the statement in the House of Commons. He had been asked by Conservative E. E. Bullin whether the R.A.F. in Singapore is adequate "to meet all eventualities."

WINNIPEG, July 13 (CP).—British probably could not spare ground troops for the United Nations forces in Korea if she were asked to do so, Patrick Gordon-Walker, British Commonwealth relations secretary, said at a press conference here yesterday.

Mr. Gordon-Walker, crossing Canada en route to Australia, told Winnipeg reporters that Britain's troop supply is being used to wage war against Communists in Malaya, to garrison Hongkong and for occupation duty in Germany.

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP).—Canada's three destroyers were in full fighting trim and ready for action when they steamed into Pearl Harbor naval base today and joined United States naval task force "Yoke" for anti-Communist operations in the Far Pacific.

Naval headquarters disclosed this tonight with release of a signal from H.M.C.S. Cayuga, flagship of the flotilla, received while the ships were still at sea. It told of intensive exercises, including night attacks of the kind the tribal class fighting ships might be expected to make or meet in Korean waters.

Exercises were carried out continually during the seven-day voyage from Esquimalt. Typical was a night action last Monday night, in which H.M.C.S. Athabaskan and H.M.C.S. Sioux turned and made a mock attack on the Cayuga.

All ships were darkened for the exercise. Aboard the Cayuga, with blackout curtains fixed and all deadlights down, the heat rose to the 100-degree mark.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

P.O. Bob Stewart of Victoria and Leading Seaman Lloyd Milton of Calgary did quite a business during the week in their ship's sewing shop, which is complete with a hand-peddled sewing machine. At a moment's notice they can turn a badge or a cuff or mend a rent in the seat of the pants.

Also aboard Cayuga—as aboard most naval ships—were two or three crew-operated barber shops. Of the three, P.O. Bill Monteith of Victoria claims to have had his shingle up the longest and boasts the largest clientele.

And he did quite a business—when he wasn't manning his action station.

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP).—A definite date for the general Dominion-Provincial conference this autumn now tentatively scheduled for "September or October"—probably will be fixed after the committee of attorneys-general meets August 21, a source close to the Government said today.

That committee, formed at the Dominion-Provincial constitutional conference last January, will study proposals for transferring from the United Kingdom to Canada the power to make all amendments to the Canadian constitution.

The source said the committee's meetings might have a bearing on the date of the general conference.

All provinces have indicated they will attend the Fall conference, although Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec has not stated definitely that his Government will be represented.

British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island have replied to a Federal invitation to submit problems for discussion.

Premier Byron Johnson of British Columbia said in a letter to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent he would like to see discussions on social security "touch on such matters as responsibility for employable unemployed and for unemployable persons."

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP).—The Canadian Government is not now considering further aid to Korea beyond the dispatch of three destroyers already on the way.

Parliament would be called on for approval before Canada sent aid involving different types of fighting forces, including ground and air personnel.

These points were made clear today at a press conference in which External Affairs Minister Pearson, who is acting defence minister, reviewed the Korean situation and Canada's contribution.

Government Street Signals Ill Arranged, Club Complains

There are too many "stops and starts" on Government Street, the Victoria Automobile Club feels.

Executive of the club decided at a meeting yesterday to ask City Council to have traffic lights on Government Street synchronized in the same way that lights are synchronized on Douglas Street, so that a motorist who catches a green light at one intersection can drive at a reasonable speed down the length of the street.

At present, said Ald. F. G. Mulliner, president of the club, a car may catch a green light once but be forced to jolt to a stop at several following intersections because lights are not synchronized.

The club will also write to Saanichton Council complaining of the "intolerable" condition of the scenic road to the top of Mount Tolmie. Many tourists ride over the pothole-riddled road, the club will point out.

PAYMENT ON MAIN

The Greater Victoria Water Board at a meeting yesterday approved "progress payment" for June, totalling $150,000, to contractors on the new supply main from Japan Gulch.

Pipe-manufacturing contractors are Victoria Machinery Depot Co., Ltd., and pipe-laying contractors are Fred Mannix Construction Co. Ltd.

The new line is being built from Japan Gulch to Thetis Lake Road this year. Next year it will be extended to the city.

Commissioner Ralph Davis said the pipe-making contract for this year is about one-half completed and the laying contract is one-third completed.

BACK TAX BRIEF

Victoria was notified by seven more British Columbia municipalities yesterday that they had endorsed the city's brief to the Provincial Government urging that sales tax payments not be earmarked for education.

The municipalities are Silverton, Nelson, New Westminster, Port Alberni, the Township of Chilliwack, West Vancouver and Merritt.

Eighteen municipalities so far have given the brief their outright backing. Prince Rupert and Burnaby said they would act through the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, and Vancouver is still pondering the question.

DOG GOES BY AIR

Accompanying her much-travelled mistress when she left Victoria recently by T.C.A. plane for London, Ont., was Jemima S. McGregor, tiny, six-week-old Cocker Spaniel dog belonging to Anne Wurtele.

Miss Wurtele, who describes traveling as her hobby and dogs as her companions, purchased "Jem" while visiting here after her Scottish terrier "Heather Barley Corn," died. The Scotty had traveled 30,000 miles by air, rail, boat and car, Miss Wurtele said.

PURSES STOLEN

A stealthy thief about midnight Tuesday escaped with three women's purses containing a total of about $119 from the home of H. P. Johns, 850 Richmond Road.

Don't Leave Valuables In Cars, Advises Chief

Police Chief John Blackstock yesterday warned motorists to refrain from leaving valuable articles in parked cars.

Concerned over the recent rash of car prowling, the chief said every effort is being made by his department to prevent the thefts. He said, however, motorists can help themselves to a certain extent.

"Drivers should avoid parking their cars on the street overnight. It is illegal and is a temptation to thieves. Above all, don't leave valuable articles in cars," stated Chief Blackstock.

It is regrettable, he said, that tourists are bearing the brunt of the car prowlers' activities because it leaves them with a poor impression of the city.

Car prowlers in the last two weeks have broken into numerous parked cars and stolen articles worth a total of several hundreds of dollars. In most cases the cars have been locked and the thieves have broken ventilation windows to gain entrance. From one car alone it was estimated $1,200 worth of articles was stolen.

Registrations Of New Cars Nearly Doubled

Number of new cars operating on British Columbia highways this year is almost double the number last year, the Motor Vehicle Branch stated yesterday in its report for the period ending May 31.

This year there have been 19,898 new car registrations, as against 5,225 for the similar period last year.

Total motor vehicles in the Province have jumped from 192,939 last year to 218,300 this year.

The total number of commercial vehicle registrations, 55,335, is more than 4,000 above last year.

Number of persons holding drivers' or chauffeurs' licences has increased from 253,898 to 276,699.

Maximum Penalty of $100 Imposed on Motorist Convicted Under Amended Careless Driving Law

Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday imposed the maximum fine of $100 on a driver convicted under the new careless driving charge.

It was the heaviest fine ever imposed by the magistrate on the careless driving charge. Recently amended. The minimum fine is $5. Most fines imposed have ranged from $30 to $40.

Found guilty was Edward Maw, 75 Balfour Avenue, who as well as being fined the $100 had his driver's licence suspended. Penalty in default of payment was seven days in jail.

Maw was charged after the car he was driving was in collision with pedestrian Mrs. Margaret Young, 67, 106 South Turner Street, April 17, at the intersection of Douglas and Courtney Streets. Mrs. Young received an injured ankle in the collision.

Indications are that the magistrate is going to impose heavier penalties in driving cases in an effort to curb the number of driving infractions.

SUSPENSIONS INCREASED

Several weeks ago he warned that drunken driving convictions were going to result in stiffer suspensions. For some time there were no drunken drivers in court. On Monday, however, two appeared before him, were sentenced to seven days in jail each, and had their licences suspended for one year instead of the six months which has been customary recently. Magistrate Hall also has been imposing heavier fines on persons convicted of driving without driver's licences.

PLEAD GUILTY

Clarence Ellis, 1211 Colville Road, and George Ellis, 1359 Simon Road, brothers, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a heavy machine blanket from the Sidney Roofing & Paper Co. Ltd., Industrial Reserve, Tuesday night.

Magistrate Hall remanded the pair to this morning for sentence.

Lawyers' Work For City Queried

Canadian Bar Association quizzed Victoria yesterday on how much work lawyers were doing for the city and what they were paid for their services.

A detailed questionnaire was enclosed with a letter from the association's special committee which is carrying out a survey of the "legal profession in Canada. The matter was turned over to City Solicitor A. J. Patton.

B.C.'s Tax "Rental" Case Grossly Distorted

WITHOUT waiting to see what British Columbia's case for a new financial agreement with the Dominion Government may be, The Winnipeg Free Press has made a bitter and sarcastic attack on the financial policies of the Government of this Province which thoroughly misrepresents the facts. It is known that when its five-year contract with the Dominion comes up for review and possible renewal, this Province will ask for terms more favorable than those too hurriedly accepted at the end of the war; but The Free Press distorts the case when it refers to the unseen brief now being prepared as an attempt "to extort more money from the Government of Canada."

The tax agreements signed with the Dominion by seven of the Provinces have nothing to do with revenue belonging to Canada as a whole. They relate to tax money to which the Dominion has no more claim than it would have to the returns from Victoria's parking meters; money that was voluntarily turned over to the Dominion in return for certain benefits, some of which have not materialized. British Columbia, like the other six, let the Dominion have tax fields constitutionally reserved to the Provinces, on a rental basis returning a fixed sum annually for five years. This rental is not a Dominion "grant," as The Free Press describes it, but a business arrangement through which British Columbia as owner of the field has in fact been the benefactor of the Dominion at the expense of its own people.

Having made what has turned out to be a poor deal, the British Columbia Government has a duty to its taxpayers to raise the rent or evict the tenant when the lease expires. It is grossly incorrect for The Free Press to say that British Columbia, "facing at last the results of its own unprecedented prodigality, is looking to the Canadian taxpayer to bail it out." Prodigality there may have been; but that is British Columbia's own business. The Canadian taxpayer does not enter the picture save as one who for three years has done very nicely indeed out of British Columbia.

An Invitation That Could Be Accepted With Profit

THE responsibility for defence of this area does not belong squarely to its citizens, as stated in a letter printed on this page yesterday from the commanding officer of a local reserve army unit. Victorians and Vancouver Islanders have a part to play, but primarily the onus is on the National Defence Department to initiate and direct the policies that govern preparedness. Local action is confined to a limited sphere within that compass. The shortcomings of national defence planning, however, no doubt oblige the need to bring units up to strength.

There is the statement of the commanding officer in question that although a reserve force exists not enough men belong to it to make it effective. This creates none too reassuring a situation, and it is one that all those in a position to do so should endeavor to correct. Mr. Clifton said a week ago that Canada's primary need was not for men, but it is obvious that so far as this coastal area is concerned local reserve officers know much better. Equipment, whether in ample or scarce supply, is not of much use without men to handle it.

Apart altogether from the incidence of national emergencies—and there is virtue in the thesis that in such cases the man who is already trained is better off materially and financially—there is an aspect of reserve army service not sufficiently appreciated by many who could profit by it. The bonhomie and social amenities which now are part and parcel of this type of military training rob it of its former Spartan atmosphere, and provide a refreshing and interesting interlude in normal civilian life. Most reserve army men enjoy such association to the limit. Unattached Victorians would do well to take advantage of the invitation extended to join the 75th (B.C.) H.A.A. Regiment, R.C.A.

Foundation Stock for Manitoba Farms

IN a world that Thomas Carlyle might have had little difficulty in recognizing as "dog-mad," Prince Edward Island's contribution of purebred swine to the farms of Manitoba's flooded region stands out in welcome relief as a sane and friendly action, one closely bound up with the roots and beginnings of this still-young country. The carload of registered Yorkshires will be distributed now, and will form the foundation of new droves in a region hard hit when the Red River and its tributaries went on the rampage recently.

There is something encouraging in this quiet gesture, like the sharing of neighbors who like and trust each other. Eighty-seven swine will not restore the livestock roll of Manitoba's stricken farms, but the fact that people care and have taken this means, among others, of expressing that regard is comforting and a wholesome thing in this upset world. Here is the spirit of the threshing bee and the barn-raising as they were known in pioneering times.

For another reason Prince Edward Island's contribution is valuable. It helps to draw together more closely people in two widely separated parts of the country which through the years have not had much in common. The Maritime Province is not alone, of course, in its desire to help in Winnipeg's disastrous flood. Every part of Canada has taken a hand in that. It has been left to Prince Edward Island, however, to find this ideal manner of expressing a concern that has been shared from border to border in the land—help not only for the present, but also for the future.

NEWCASTLE DISEASE

Sir,—Permit me to suggest that there is a possibility of tracing Newcastle disease to the quality and combination of feed. Usually grain of the lowest quality is considered as good for poultry food. However, that also includes weeds, some of a poisonous nature, and grain getting wet or cut green turns mouldy and that, too, is considered by some as fit food for poultry.

Poor feed might be sold by the dealer or good feed might be spoiled while in care of the poultry man. Green food is good for poultry, but how about using that which has been sprayed to kill insects? We know what the wrong kind, or spoiled food, can do to people. Why expect poultry to be exempt from it?

While I do not claim that to be the actual reason for Newcastle disease, nevertheless it pays to investigate.

CANADA'S "INTERFERENCE"

Sir,—I would like to congratulate Doris Blakey for her courage in writing "BIM-Doubie-Talk," which appeared in your column on July 7.

In these days of anti-Communist hysteria one hesitates to exercise the much vaunted right of free speech for fear of also being branded "Communist."

My own study of events in Korea has led me to the same conclusions as Doris Blakey and practically everyone with whom I have discussed the matter is of the same opinion. This leads one to wonder whether or not the actions of our Government in interfering in Korea are truly the wish of the great mass of the Canadian people. I would like to see a vote taken on the matter.

Surely the Koreans are entitled to decide for themselves, by whatever means they wish, what kind of government they are to have without any interference from us.

Incidentally, during the World War the Koreans served with the Japanese armed forces and I, personally, have been a witness to as well as a victim of their many acts of barbarity to Allied prisoners of war in Japanese prison camps, and I would be very loath to see any of our young men losing their lives for the sake of such a people.

NOT SO FAR EAST

Sir,—Your correspondent, Doris Blakey, and the Labor-Progressives concern themselves quite unnecessarily with the tortuous politics of the Far East. Their sympathies would be better employed with politics at home.

To prove their good intent they could join forces with those who are trying to improve the plight of people in this country, the Indians.

The peoples of Asia and Africa are well able to look after themselves, and seem to be doing it without the patronage of Doris Blakey and company.

"Where the Region Grows . . ."

Where the region grows without a lord,
Between the thickets emerald-tolled,
In the woodland bottom the virgin sword,
The cream of the earth, through depths of mold
O'erflowing wells from secret cells,
While the mud and the sun keep watch and ward,
And the ancient world is never old.

Here, alone, by the grass-green hearth
Tarry a little: the good will come!
Feel your body a part of the earth:
Rest and quicken your thought at home.
Take your ease with the brooding trees;
Join in their deep-down silent mirth.
The crumbling rock and the turtle loam.

Listen and watch! The wind will sing:
And the day go out by the western gate;
The night come up on her darling wings;
And the stars with flaming torches wait.
Listen and see! And love and be
The day and the night and the world-wide thing.

Of strength and hope you contemplate . . .

A LETTER to hand about the growing preference of the term "ladies" for "women" is piquant.

It coincides, as it happens, with another letter deploring the habit some press and radio people have of saying "two-and-one-half" when they mean "two-and-a-half." Obviously, as this correspondent remarks, the "one" is redundant since it could not possibly be "two" or "three" or "four." A half is always a half and nothing else. I agree.

I'm on the side also of the lady who writes to me about "ladies" and "women," although to be appropriate I should call her a woman and not a lady, albeit I'm sure she is that too. If this sounds confusing simply bide a bit; we can straighten it out together as we go on (I hope).

"What has become of women?" asks my feminine correspondent.

A neat query, to which she supplies the answer: "Apparently there is no such animal these days; we—they—are all 'ladies.'"

There are shop ladies, lady helps, Indian ladies, laundry ladies, etc., she says. But no women. Why?

Well, perhaps feminine refinement has reached a new apex.

And yet, you know, Eve was never called a lady. Some of you may have the notion she never was a lady but the fact remains she was the mother of all the ladies who came after, so . . .

And Adam distinctly said she was to be called Woman, with a capital W into the bargain.

In Biblical parlance the women greatly outshine the ladies. Listening to a sermon recently my correspondent was surprised to hear the expression, "Ladies of the Bible," a gentility she thought absurd. True enough "Women of the Bible" does seem more felicitous, nevertheless women are called ladies in the Book of Books—although only once or twice. On the other hand they are referred to as women at least forty times.

On the other hand again when it comes to poetry the word lady seems more appropriate. Somehow "Lady of the Lake" sounds better than would "Woman of the Lake." And yet a novel like Wilkie Collins' "The Woman in White" appeals as likely to have more depth than if it were captioned "The Lady in White."

What my correspondent is driving at, of course, is the snobbish tinge given to much current use of the word lady. While all ladies are women this degree of distinction implies that not all women are ladies.

Perhaps not, if by ladies you mean the correlative of gentleman (meaning gentle man and not just a bloke with so-called social position). Yet no gentleman objects to being called a man, and even a woman who likes to be called a lady wouldn't like to be called unwomanly.

It would sound peculiar, too, if the chairman at a mixed meeting opened the proceedings with "Women and men" instead of the customary "Ladies and gentlemen." But it would have sounded just as peculiar if Mrs. Pankhurst, who I daresay was a lady as well as a woman, and vice versa, had campaigned for the feminine franchise with the slogan "Votes for Ladies" instead of "Votes for Women."

So where are we? Nevertheless and notwithstanding, you who read this will get the point my correspondent is making. Too often a self-appointed society group thinks of itself as composed of "ladies" and not of "women." And, vide the shop ladies, the affectation is catching.

Woman! A good, honest, happy word after all. And, don't forget, the one that Adam preferred.

Socialist Isolationism

By RAYMOND MOLEY

NEW YORK.—Prime Minister Attlee is either an incredibly poor party leader or he is a teller of tall tales. John Strachey, the Labor Government's Secretary of State for War, has again raised the issue of the Socialist attitude toward the Schuman plan. After a committee of the Labor Party issued a report declaring that the Socialist Government could not have economic co-operation with capitalist nations of the Continent, Attlee disowned the suggestion. He and other members of his Government declared in Parliament that they not only had no part in the declaration but did not object to the Schuman plan on any such ground. In other words, he told France and Western Germany that they could co-operate with Attlee's Government, but not with Attlee's Party.

This was curious reasoning, and in the House of Commons the Conservative opposition made a great deal of it. However, since the Conservatives themselves are not favorable to the plan for quite different reasons, they could hardly force the issue to the point of upsetting the Government. The Conservatives' real reason for coldness to the plan is their fear of a revived German steel industry as a competitor of Britain's.

And now comes John Strachey with a blast which follows the exact line of the earlier party report—which, incidentally, was the work of Hugh Dalton. Strachey in terms that have a faint suggestion of the outbursts of our own Henry Wallace, denounces "the great capitalistic interests of Europe." He says that those evil capitalists are afraid that the "people" may get control of economic power.

Once more, as in the Dalton report, the United States "Government"—not the United States, it should be noted—is absolved of the taint of capitalism. The people in our Government who have been attacking our own steel industry will enjoy Strachey's tribute. He says: "The United States Government is in many ways more progressive than many of the governments of Western Europe." The word "progressive" is used to describe people who would regiment or take over the steel industry. Apparently the industry itself, which in private hands has created the sinews of a new civilization, is not itself "progressive."

This is the same Strachey who used to write large tomes about the death of capitalism—works which, incidentally, were eagerly read and reviewed in our own radical circles. He is the same person who, as Minister of Food, was responsible for the ridiculous ground-nuts scheme in East Africa. He wasted tens of millions of precious Government dollars on growing peanuts, which turned out to be the most expensive peanuts in all history.

Then, because as Minister of Food he was a political liability, Attlee made him Minister of War. When the Beaverbrook press attacked the placing of a person of his antecedents in charge of a British military establishment, Attlee defended Strachey, saying that he had cast off his Communism. It will be interesting to see what reasons Attlee will find to defend him now.

Arbiters of Female Apparel

(From The Montreal Gazette)

THE City Council, more specifically a sufficiently large group of its more rational members, has once more blocked adoption of the silly proposal to regulate by by-law the types of Summer garments worn by women. As this is the third occasion in the course of the past year that a council majority has curbed the undue zeal of would-be arbiters of female apparel, it may be hoped that the draft by-law in question will be firmly and permanently pigeon-holed.

Enactment of such a measure would have made the council and city administration ridiculous, not only in the eyes of local citizens and visiting tourists, but across the country and in other parts of the world. It would also have imposed an embarrassing and virtually impossible task of enforcement on the police and the courts. How many policemen could be depended on for a precise and reliable definition of "bolero" or similar garment, without which sun-suits or sun-dresses would have been deemed "indecent"?

The by-law seems to have been aimed at the prohibition of particular garments, such as sun-dresses, beach suits and shorts, which have become increasingly popular forms of women's Summer attire in recent years, but the wearing of which has hardly become general on the principal streets and other public places.

The population is quite amply protected against shock and moral degeneration by the existing provisions of the Criminal Code and municipal by-laws against indecency in the form of nudity or undue exposure. Another safeguard is the common sense which must underlie police regulation of public conduct and the public acceptance of fashions in dress. Modesty or otherwise in women's costumes is something which depends, not on precise conformity with futile by-laws, but on the mind of the beholder and the spirit and conduct of the wearer.

A visitor found himself seated next to a distinguished Maori at a public function. In the course of conversation the Maori remarked:

"You may be surprised to hear I have Scottish blood in my veins."

"I am indeed," replied the visitor. "How is that?"

"Well," said the Maori, "as a matter of fact, my grandfather once had a Scotch minister for dinner."

Everyone has marvelled at the eight-month-old girl who can whistle tune. Now comes the difficult part—making her cut it out.

4,000 WINNERS

The world-famous British jockey, Gordon Richards, is now winner of 4,000 races, an achievement never approached by any other champion rider in any country. Richards also holds the world record of riding 12 consecutive winners. He has been racing regularly for 30 years and has ridden in some 18,500 races. In one year alone he rode 259 winners.

It isn't bombs the world is fighting for.

The visiting psychologist was giving the teacher some advice.

"You don't hold the interests of your pupils, Miss Smith. When they come in, I'll prove to you that they don't pay the slightest attention to what is going on."

Presently the youngsters filed in an look their places. The visitor, in large, clear figures, wrote 53 on the blackboard, and called for another number. Receiving 19, he wrote 91 on the blackboard, and when 47 was called he wrote 74.

After several minutes of this the visitor glanced triumphantly at the teacher, when suddenly a voice called out: "Sixty-six. Let's see you mess that one about!"

I AM down for a five-minute speech at the committee dinner meeting tonight. Have you any suggestions? Barber Ben asked the boss of the shop. "You are never at a loss for words or topics around here. The most popular after-dinner speech is 'I will take the check,'" the boss chuckled. "How do you like the new hat I bought for our holiday?" the wife of Bill, the Broad Street barber, asked when he arrived home for dinner. "As a matter of fact I am not particularly fond of the style," Bill replied from behind his newspaper. "I expected that kind of remark from you. As far as you are concerned there are only two styles in women's hats. There is the kind you do not like and the kind you claim—you cannot afford," his wife commented. "I heard a chitropodist tell another man in the bus this morning that a person's feet can accurately reveal weather conditions, but did not manage to catch his explanation. What do you suppose he meant?" a friend asked Tobaccoist Martin. "I imagine he means feet are particularly effective in identifying the presence of mud, snow, ice and rain on the ground," Martin replied. "Last night I heard an item on a radio news broadcast to the effect that a man at Detroit had died and left his parrot $40,000," a neighbor said to the Keating Squire. "Relatives may contest the will on the grounds that the bird talked the man into it," the squire chuckled. "From a Mesachie Lake reader: 'I am against tipping. Does hubby ever slip a tip under the plate after wifey has served a tasty repast? Some will argue that he has already paid for the groceries.' He goes into a restaurant. The steak may be tough and the bread stale, but he slips a quarter under the plate and smiles benignly at the waitress, but not slyly enough to miss the eagle eye of wifey. She does not mind the tip so much, but listen to him complain when she spends the same amount for a bottle of nail polish."

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

THIS is what the watch repair men call "mainspring weather." June, July and August are the busy months in the mainspring business.

The professionals say that it is the sudden changes of temperature which cause the mainsprings to break. But whenever there is a thunderstorm, all the watch repair men in the country take the loop out of their eyes—that is the little black magnifier—and say: "Ah, I'll be busy with mainsprings tomorrow." Which suggests to a layman that possibly electric tension in the atmosphere may have something to do with the explosion of a tensed mainspring. Because they will tell you that often a spring is broken not into two pieces, but into forty. There will be a crack across the coiled spring as though a knife had sliced it. Maybe a little lightning-stroke all unheeded on your wrist?

The change of temperature theory, however, is supported by the fact that all Winter, every Monday morning, the watch repair men are visited by a procession of skiers whose watch mainsprings have broken over the week-end in the open. They blame it on the sudden extremes of temperature in going from a warm ski lodge into the cold outdoors. Why the rest of us do not suffer from mainspring trouble in Winter is doubtless due to the fact that our coat sleeves protect the watch during the jiffies we are in the open air between leaving the house and getting into a warm car or a warm trolley.

But Summer is the great benefactor of the watch business. Watches go in swimming, get dumped from canoe and dinghy. Sand on the beaches, far finer and more destructive than the sand we can see, gets into the works. The sudden changes from sun-baked heat to evening chill cause condensation within the works, to make rust. Summer is a good time to leave your watch at home and depend on your stomach to tell you the time.

New Cabinet Selected By Plevin

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS, July 12 (AP)—Premier René Plevin tonight announced the make-up of a new Cabinet, and the end of France's 18-day Government crisis seemed assured.

Plevin is a rightist. A member of the small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance (Union Démocratique et Socialiste) who has been considered friendly to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, he will head a cabinet made up of Socialists, Radical Socialists, Conservatives, and members of the left-of-centre Mouvement Republicain Populaire, plus three independents and two members of his own group.

SAME COMBINATION
This is essentially the same combination of centre parties which governed France through recent years until last February, when the Socialists withdrew.

The return of the Socialists appears to assure Plevin the support of their powerful block of 23 votes.

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, M.R.P., and Interior Minister Henry Queuille, a Radical Socialist, keep their posts in the new Government.

BIDAULT ABSENT
Georges Bidault, whose cabinet fell June 24, is not in the new cabinet. But M.R.P. contributed the man to run an important new job. He is Jean Letourneau, Minister of State for the Associated States of Indo-China.

Queuille's Radical Socialists also are represented by Paul Giacobbi, a recent follower of de Gaulle, who holds a new ministry without portfolio.

The chief Socialists entering the Government are Jules Moch, former "strong man" minister of interior who takes Plevin's old job of defence minister; and Guy Mollet, Socialist secretary-general.

In Japanese Police Raid

TOKIO, July 13 (Thursday) (INS)—Japanese police arrested at least three persons today in cracking down on Communist-dominated All-Japan Students' Federation in a series of nation-wide dawn raids.

The raids followed discovery of anti-American handbills pasted on walls at Hiroshima University campus June 30. The leaflets showed a purported "map of military bases in Japan."

Hiroshima police arrested Hiroshi Kato and two other students. Kato was quoted by police as saying the handbills were distributed throughout Japan by Hidenori Takahashi, secretary-general of the national headquarters of the student group.

Nearly 100 raids were made on offices of the group and the homes of its leaders.

Prosecutors accompanied the raiding parties to collect first hand evidence of the group's activities.

Police reported large quantities of "anti-war and anti-American propaganda" publications were seized.

Missing Aircraft Found; Search Party Called Off

An international air search for a missing American pilot, scheduled to get under way in British Columbia's West Coast area yesterday, was called off when R.C.A.F. officials at Vancouver reported the plane had been located.

Study Legality Of Devices For Signaling

Legality of mechanical signaling devices on British-made cars is being studied by the Provincial motor vehicle branch.

The problem is becoming more pressing as more and more British Columbia motorists turn to British cars.

At present, mechanical signals are not legal. It is still possible that the driver of a British-made car could be fined for signaling with the mechanical signalers, rather than using his arm.

The Provincial motor vehicle branch has two basic objections to such devices. Branch officials don't think signals placed on the right of cars should be approved because they depart from standard procedure on this continent for signaling from the driver's side.

They object also to those which have been placed on the left, to suit North America, because they are not able to indicate a right turn.

Provincial officials state all the Provinces of Canada are studying the same problem, with the object of adopting a uniform policy.

The executive committee of Victoria Automobile Club has passed a resolution asking the Provincial Government to be more lenient toward mechanical signals on cars. The club will ask that motor-vehicle regulations be amended to legalize some types of signals now unacceptable.

"As the province now has a great many British cars which are equipped with these devices, it was felt that it was only fair that they should be made as legal as the arm signals," said Alderman F. G. Mulliner, president of the club.

LEGAL IN ONTARIO
"Ontario now has made both methods of signaling legal, to gether with several states of the U.S.A."

Certain arrow-type signals—notably the kind now used on B.C. Electric buses—have been approved by the superintendent of motor vehicles. Some arm-type signals which show upward, horizontal and downward positions also have been approved. Several types of arrow and arm signals have been rejected.

The pilot of the light single-engine plane, identified as Clyde Samson, of Compton, Cal., took off from Port Hardy on the northern tip of Vancouver Island at 3:32 p.m. Tuesday bound for Annette Island about 70 miles from Prince Rupert.

The pilot evidently filed a flight plan for the 350-mile trip and cited his fuel range as four hours and 15 minutes. When the interval had passed and the plane was not reported at Annette Island, R.C.A.F. air-sea rescue squadron at Vancouver was notified.

FEW DETAILS
The R.C.A.F. which could give few details, said Samson had made a forced landing Tuesday on a beach just short of his destination, and "both pilot and aircraft were all right."

Weather along the flight route ran from fair to poor at the time the flight plan was filed.

Evidently the plane encountered strong head winds on the route that may have used up gasoline reserves forcing Samson to land short of the airport.

Association Planning Exhibition Park, Race Track on Site in Burnside Area

Construction of a $300,000 exhibition park with a horse-racing track, on a 50-acre site in the Burnside area in Esquimalt municipality, is being planned by the British Columbia Agriculture Association, it was reported yesterday.

Officials of the organization have been seeking a new site replacing the Willows Fair Grounds ever since buildings there, including the race-track grandstand, were demolished and the property sold to Oak Bay in 1948 for residential purposes.

The proposed site is described as ideal—a comparative stone's throw from the city, and not adjoined by thickly-populated residential areas.

Association members seeking money grants in aid of the project have received encouraging reactions from the two senior Governments, it was reported, and some municipal officials have indicated willingness to assist.

Money from the Governments would be earmarked for construction purposes only, and the association is now considering financing the property purchase.

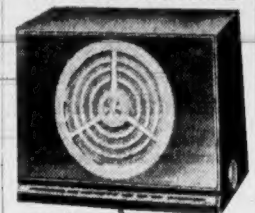

Agreement has not been reached on construction of the race track, which is considered a "must" for an exhibition park. However, meetings on this phase of the plans are expected shortly with Sam Randall, Vancouver owner of the Willows track before its sale.

The committee appointed to take charge of the sports program for the day includes Mrs. H. McGill, Mrs. Colin Moust, Mrs. J. B. Foubister and Mrs. Stanley Wagg.

Tea was served by Mrs. E. Parsons and Mrs. Wagg. The sum of $80 was realized when the Fernwood Circle of the Ganges United Church W.A. held a successful tea at the home of Mrs. E. Davis, North Salt Spring. The tea was convoked by Mrs. J. Jackson and the needlework and home-cooking stall was in charge of Mrs. E. Burr.

Early Tea Drinkers Attributed Outstanding Powers to Beverage

Reading "The Lipton Story" by Alec Waugh led me, naturally, to brood about tea. Delving into the matter, I dug up some interesting facts about it.

In 1690, Samuel Pepys wrote: "I did send for a cup of tea—a China drink—of which I had never drank before." At that time the best quality "Tcha, Tvy or Tee" sold for four guineas a pound. It was highly recommended to remove lassitude, vanquish dreams, ease the frame, and strengthen the memory. Tea habits came to America with the early colonists, but took a setback with the Boston tea party and the American Revolution. Otherwise it might have superseded coffee as the American national drink.

The early history of tea is shrouded in the mists of time. It is generally believed that the earliest use of tea was in China. However, some experts say that the original tea plants were brought into China from India. The oldest written records about tea are in Chinese, which ascribes its origin to a legendary emperor, Shen Nung, who is said to have lived about 2737 B.C. There are die-hard researchers, however, who say that the oldest reference to tea occurs in the Book of Odes, of Confucius, about 550 B.C.

In Japanese mythology, there is a fascinating story about the origin of tea. It seems that a Buddhist saint in China fell asleep after having taken a vow of perpetual wakefulness, and was so ashamed by his sin when he awoke that he cut off his eyelids and cast them on the ground. There they took root and became tea plants.

In 1664 Queen Catherine, wife of Charles II of England, received a present of tea from the East India Company, and liked it so much that she introduced it to society, and it became the fashionable and national drink. Various nations have various ways of preparing and serving tea—in Tibet they boil tea leaves with butter; the English like milk, hot cream, and sugar; the Chinese insist on freshly boiling water.

A reader has asked me to repeat my recipe for the so-called "Russian Tea." So here it is:

Scald teapot with boiling water. Put 1 teaspoon of tea in the pot for each cup, plus 1 "for the pot." Measure fresh cold water, bring to a boil, pour on leaves. Steep 5 minutes, add dry leaf, a whole clove, and strain into fresh pot. Serve with lemon.

Spiced Plums

Now's the time to start building up your preserve closet for next Fall and Winter. Many fruits seem to have a relatively short season nowadays, despite our streamlined methods of transportation, so it is well to make use of them as they come on the market.

Plums are a case in point. When they are at their peak, and cheapest, put up some jars of spiced ones. You can, of course, use any plums you choose, but if you can get greenegages, they are best of all.

Pick over and wash one gallon of plums. Prick the skin in several places with a large needle. Boil together 7 cups of sugar, 3 cups of vinegar, and a spice bag containing a teaspoon of whole cloves, a stick of cinnamon and a tablespoon whole allspice. Boil for 5 minutes, then let cool. Add the plums, renew heat and simmer until plums are hot through. Let stand overnight, then simmer again until plums are tender. Pack into sterilized dry glasses and seal at once. Wonderful with cold meats or with vanilla ice cream.

New Angel Cake Method

In Canada's Kitchen the home economists have been carrying on some interesting experiments on cooking angel cakes and they now agree that, with modern, well-controlled ovens it is practical to bake angel cake at a higher temperature than has been recommended. This one is worth trying.

1 cup egg whites
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sifted fruit sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup sifted cake flour
Beat egg whites and salt until frothy, add cream of tartar and beat until stiff but not dry. Beat in 1/2 cup of the fruit sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time. Add flavouring. Sift remaining sugar and the flour four times and fold into meringue, 2 tablespoons at a time. Pour into an ungreased 9" tube pan. Bake in a very hot oven, 425 degrees F., for 25 minutes. Yield: One 8-inch cake.

Dried Eggs for Summer

A carton of eggs is always a good start toward a meal. There are so many ways in which eggs may be used as the main dish and in combination with other foods that it is a rare meal that does not have eggs in some form.

Canada has set standards for grading eggs, so that the home-maker buys eggs by grade. For finest flavor and perfection she buys grade "A." For economy the lower grade "B" may be used in general cooking such as batters or as a binder for other foods.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, say that the old question of preference for brown or white eggs comes up over and over again with arguments on both sides. The color of the shell has nothing to do with grade or food value, but many people are still very definite in their preference.

Dried eggs are excellent for Summer cottage use. Being concentrated they are easy to transport and require minimum storage space. They do, however, require careful storage.

"Keep cool, dry and covered" is the rule. They should be refrigerated if possible. Dried eggs must be reconstituted with water when they are used. Usually the powder is slowly blended with cold water, allowing two tablespoons water to each tablespoon dried eggs to equal one whole fresh egg. Sometimes the egg powder may be sifted with the flour and other dry ingredients and the amount of water required to reconstitute the egg added to the other liquid.

When eggs are plentiful home-makers can turn their cooking talents to angel food, sponge cake, soufflé, meringues and other delicious egg treats. There are, however, some fine points on using egg whites to best advantage.

The temperature of an egg affects the separation of the yolk and white and the whipping of the white. An egg just out of the refrigerator separates most easily because the white is firm and the yolk less easily broken. The white will whip more easily if it is not too cold.

Shrimp Salad

The other night, dining with a friend, we were treated to shrimp salad mixed with grapefruit, served in the grapefruit shells. The combination of flavors was excellent.

Cut grapefruit into halves, and remove the central cores, loosen the sections from the enclosing membranes. Take out every other section.

Marinate whole, cooked, cleaned shrimps in a spicy French dressing.

"Two Tickets to Broadway" New Leigh-Martin Musical

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD, July 12 (INS).—The reason Janet Leigh is in Las Vegas tonight at the Desert Inn to see Tony Martin's show is because Tony is to be her co-star in "Two Tickets to Broadway." This is Howard Hughes' first musical and the one for which Frank Sinatra was discussed before he took off for London.

Tony, who draws crowds in every night club where he sings, and who has an engaging personality, has a voice that everyone likes to hear. For three months Janet has been working on her dancing with Marge and Gower Champion, who are also in this Hughes Technicolor opus.

At the time Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers were at RKO, their musicals were tops. Now Howard is apparently out to make a bid for this position again.

BUSINESS DEAL
I saw Lauren Bacall, looking like a strawberry ice cream cone in a pretty pink Summer dress, lunching at Romanoff's with her agent, Ray Stark.

"What's the fiddle for?" I asked.

"Big business," replied Lauren—and she wasn't kidding. A few hours later word broke that she and Warner had called off their contract. Here are her plans:

Ray becomes one-third partner with her husband, Humphrey Bogart, and Robert Lord in Santana Productions at Columbia. As well as helping the boss, Lauren will also star in their pictures with Bogart. But she does not go into "Sirocco," the current script. It's too far along to rewrite.

HOLLYWOOD CHATTER
Since July 5, Shirley Temple's boy friend, Charles Black, has been living quietly in Los Angeles, where he has taken a job to be near her. He is working as an account executive on a local television station and plans to make Hollywood his permanent home.

When Shirley met Black in Honolulu he was an executive with a pineapple company. Then he resigned, presumably to go into his father's business in San Francisco. But living in San Francisco meant commuting to Los Angeles, so he decided to move to L.A.

Alternative finesses which appear to be toss-ups when all 52 cards are in view, double-dummy fashion, are anything but that in actual play. Marshall L. Miles, writing in The Bridge World magazine, stresses this point with the following illustrative hand, among others.

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH

It is likely that North would have become declarer at six spades in a rubber game, but this was match-point duplicate, and the bidding went:

West South West North
Pass 1 N.T. Pass 6 N.T.
Pass Pass Pass

West led the spade nine, rather than a heart or a diamond from an honor. South took the trick with the spade queen, then led the diamond jack in hope (no doubt) that West would cover. West was not that glib or obliging, however, and, deciding to play East for the diamond queen, declared full up dummy's ace and then finessed to the ten on the way back. West won the trick, and it did not matter what he returned—South could not win 12 tricks outside of the club suit, and needless to say when he led a club from dummy, East was not slow in putting up the ace.

It was not South's guess in diamonds for which he could be criticized—it was the fact that he "touched" the diamond suit when he had so much better chance in a different direction. When the diamond finessing lost, the contract was lost, but that need not have been the case if South tried for a finesse in clubs, whether or not he was successful.

As the clubs honors lay, of course, South could not have gone wrong—but let's assume that West had the club queen and East the club ace. South's lead of a club to his jack would lose to the queen, and West could return a club to defeat the contract—but how would he know that?

Declarer would have made the same club play if he had held A-J-10, intending to take two finesses in the suit. Thus, West could not return clubs with any high degree of assurance, and, even after guessing wrong in clubs, South would still have another chance in the diamond finessing. In other words, the immediate diamond finessing was conclusive, one way or the other, but the club play might easily preserve the second chance.

CHAPTER XXXVII

"But I don't! I really don't! I couldn't see anything at all!"

"Oh yes, you could. You're the only person who could see. You were standing behind the door. You couldn't look at the torch—because the door was between you and it. You were facing the other way, the same way as the torch was pointing. The rest of us were just dazed."

"No—no, perhaps not, but I didn't see anything, the torch went round and round—"

"Showing you what? It rested on faces, didn't it? And on tables? And on chairs?"

"Yes—yes, it did... Miss Bunner, her mouth wide open and her eyes popping out of her head, staring and blinking."

"That's the stuff!" Miss Hinchliffe gave a sigh of relief. "The difficulty there is in making you use that grey fluff of yours! Now then, keep it up."

"But I didn't see any more. I didn't really."

"You mean you saw an empty room?—Nobody standing about? Nobody sitting down?"

"No, of course not that. Mrs. Harmon was sitting on the arm of a chair. She had her eyes tight shut and her knuckles all doubled up to her face—like a child."

"Good, that's Mrs. Harmon and Miss Bunner. Don't you see yet what I'm getting at? The difficulty is that I don't want to put ideas into your head. But when we've eliminated who you did see—we can get on to the important point—which is, was there anyone you didn't see. Got it? Besides the tables and the chairs and the chrysanthemums and the rest of it, there were certain people: Julia Simmons, Mrs. Swettenham, Mrs. Easterbrook or Edmund Swettenham—Dora Bunner and Bunch Harmon. All right, you saw Bunch Harmon and Dora Bunner. Cross them off. Now think, Murgatroyd, think, was there one of those people who definitely wasn't there?"

Miss Murgatroyd jumped slightly as a branch knocked against the open window. She shut her eyes.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Work according to previously made arrangements. Make appointments, contacts; use care en route.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Associates who are conventional and sound can lend impetus to your financial activities, opportunities.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Make gains in partnership, public and friendship affairs. Past conscientious service pays off.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Get going early; be active, enterprising; get things done. Co-workers tend to be helpful.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Express your talents; have fun. Plan, decide, make necessary trips.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: July 13, 16, 17, 18, 22, 27, 30, 31.

(Released by Consolidated News Features, Inc.)

She murmured to herself...

"The flowers... on the table... the big armchair... the torch didn't come round as far as you, Hinch—Mrs. Harmon, yes..."

The telephone rang sharply. Miss Hinchliffe went to it.

"Hello, yes? The station?"

The obedient Miss Murgatroyd, her eyes closed, was relieving the night of the 29th. The torch, sweeping slowly round... a group of people... the windows... the wall... the table with the lamp... the archway... the sudden spat of the revolver...

"...but that's extraordinary!" said Miss Murgatroyd.

"What?" Miss Hinchliffe was barking angrily into the telephone. "Been there since this morning? What time? And you only ring me up now. I'll set the S.P.C.A. after you. An oversight? Is that all you've got to say?"

She banged down the receiver.

"It's that dog," she said. "The red setter. Been at the station since morning—since this morning at 8 o'clock! Without a drop of water! And the idiots only ring me up now. I'm going to get her right away."

She plunged out of the room, Miss Murgatroyd squeaking shrilly in her wake.

"But later, Hinch, a most extraordinary thing... I don't understand it..."

Miss Hinchliffe had dashed out of the door and across to the shed which served as a garage.

"We'll go on with it when I come back," she called. "I can't wait for you to come with me. You've got your bedroom slippers on as usual."

She pressed the starter of the car and backed out of the garage with a jerk. Miss Murgatroyd skipped nimbly sideways.

Nancy Davis, and carrying her packages. Greater love hath no man!

Louis Sobol, here for his annual visit and to see his new grandchild, didn't look like grandpa at the Hernandez Courtwright birthday party. He had pretty Monica Lewis on his arm.

There were five birthdays celebrated at the Courtwright dinner-dance. Hernandez, Jimmy Mc-Hugh's, Louis B. Meyer's, George
Murphy's and John Haskell's. John was in New York on his spouse, Dorothy Manners, accepted his cake,
and ate it too.

This multiple birthday affair has developed into an annual event. Rosalind (Mrs. Courtwright) said next year she is going to put up a tent. It was also Jean Her-schel's birthday, but he forgot to tell.

Audrey Totter, just back from Canada, brought Lionel Shapiro, Canadian newspaperman, to the party. Radie Harris, here for a look-see at Movieland, was at Jimmy Mc-Hugh's table.

Richard Greene and Virginia
Field at a table for two at the Beverly Hills Brown Derby—a farewell dinner before Virginia look off for the East.

Ruby Keeler, making one of her rare appearances, at Sportsmen's Lodge with Mr. and Mrs. Ken
Murray. At another table were Ruddy Rogers and Mary Pickford.
It turned into a festive evening with Hoagy Carmichael playing the piano for over an hour.

Some man in Hollywood is impersonating Eric Pinza. We went into a cafe and ordered champagne
—but when he started singing songs from "South Pacific" it was evident he wasn't Pinza. When he didn't have enough money to pay the bill he hot-footed it out of the door and into the night.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

False Identification Used In Claiming $200 Cheque

A registered letter containing a $200 cheque in the name of Anton Dookocil, 400 Kingston Street, has been claimed at the Victoria Post Office by a man who presented a false identification card.

The case has been under investigation for some time by postal inspection service authorities who yesterday instructed local officials to notify city police about the matter.

The trick came to light when the rightful owner, Mr. Dookocil, went to the post office to claim the cheque. He said he had authorized nobody to claim it.

The culprit was given the cheque when he produced a fishing licence for identification.

Postal officials explained last night that Mr. Dookocil, who lives at a boarding house, had been notified of the registered letter in the regular manner. The notification card was obtained by the culprit who subsequently presented it to the registered mail wicket at the post office. Under postal regulations, a person unknown to the post office must present some form of identification before a registered letter is released. In this case, a fishing licence was shown. It was found later to have been false.

Officials stressed that it was not "a boy" who gave out the letter as was reported earlier. It was a qualified long-service postal employee following proper regulations.

Native Son Dies Aged 81; Bridge Disaster Witness

Joshua Smethurst, a native of Victoria, died yesterday at his home at 476 Dupplin Road, at the age of 81.

Mr. Smethurst was instrumental in saving a number of lives in the Point Ellice Bridge disaster of 1936.

Driving behind an overloaded street car in his back on the way to a military display at Massey Point, Mr. Smethurst induced a number of passengers to transfer from the street car to his back. He was approaching the bridge a short distance behind the electric car when the bridge collapsed, killing 55 persons.

Besides his widow, Lavinie, Mr.

Smethurst is survived by a son, George, in Victoria; four daughters, Mrs. Herbert Croft, Victoria, Mrs. Wilfred Butler, Keating, Mrs. George Swetland and Mrs. Lanell McDonald, of Los Angeles; 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements, in the hands of Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co., are not yet complete.

Oak Bay Extinguishes Golf Club Grass Fire

Sun Shines on Eaton's Picnic at Saanichton

Picnicking contest was one of highlights of Eaton's annual picnic yesterday on grounds of Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton. Above, contestants Dennis Hartley and Marlene Whitley speed eating chow. Contest was open to married couples, engaged couples and "anybody going steady." More than 1,300 employees and members of their families attended mammoth picnic which this year was blessed with sunshine. Last year, rain dulled activities. Refreshments were in good supply and everyone went home satisfied. Not a few will suffer sunburn at work tomorrow. Jack Cassidy headed picnic committee which everyone felt did excellent job. There were prizes for every event. Clowns and puppet show added comedy to picnic. There was model airplane demonstration and comedy baseball game.

C.P.A. Marks First Anniversary On New Trans-Pacific Schedule

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

Canadian Pacific Airlines celebrated their first anniversary on the Trans-Pacific run yesterday, having chalked up more than a million air miles of flying in the year.

Twelve months ago the "Empress of Sidney" took off from Vancouver's International Airport with a full load of passengers to inaugurate a fortnightly service to Australia, with stops at Honolulu and Fiji.

On board were Canadian newsmen and civic and company officials from across the country.

Yesterday, the "Empress of Hongkong" left Vancouver and headed south to Australia to mark the company's first Trans-Pacific-run birthday.

Twenty-four scheduled flights have carried the name of Canada into the ports of the Pacific since the "Empress of Sidney" left Vancouver last year.

Three months after the South Pacific service went into operation, a weekly schedule to the Orient was established with flights to Tokyo and Hongkong, via the Great Circle route through Anchorage, Alaska, and Shemya, in the Aleutian Islands.

Forty trips had been made on the North Pacific route at the end of June this year.

The aircraft have covered more than a million miles on the international routes and carried an average of more than 200 passengers each month between the two services.

Although the air service was still in its infancy during the first year, plans for its improvement materialized in an order for two De Havilland jet-powered Comet aircraft which will go into operation in the next two years.

The Comets, flying at an altitude of 45,000 feet, will cruise at 520 miles an hour. This will reduce the flying time from Vancouver to Honolulu from approximately 12 hours down to five and one-half hours. Tokyo will be only ten hours from Vancouver when the jets are put into operation on the run.

MARINERS' NOTICE
Surface firing and torpedo practice will be carried out in the Strait of Juan de Fuca—Victoria—Esquimalt area—by units of the Royal Canadian Navy from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on July 13 and 14.

NAVY WEEK OFF HERE
Navy Week plans here next month have been canceled. It was scheduled to have been held at the time two British warships of the West Indies squadron—H.M.S. Snipe and H.M.S. Glasgow—were to have visited Victoria.

A navy spokesman said that the visit was called off, "in view of operational commitments of the ships."

It is intended, however, to observe Navy Day on October 7 and the Battle of the Atlantic anniversary on October 8.

OUT OF MOTHBALLS

The United States Maritime Commission has ordered two freighters out of mothballs at Astoria, Ore., in order to ready them for service again.

The freighters, Joplin Victory and Navajo Victory, will be taken from Astoria to Swan Island at Portland. They were laid up about six months ago.

SHIP MOVEMENTS

The St. Riverside left Ogden Point last night bound for the United States and Eastern Canada. While here she loaded 300,000 board feet of lumber.

The Lake Minniewanka docked at Ogden Point late last night to start loading 500,000 feet of lumber for United Kingdom. Also expected in was the Furness Line's Grassy Susanne, here to discharge about 100 tons of general cargo from Britain. She will leave for Vancouver sometime today.

U.S. NAVY TO VISIT

Two United States Navy vessels will arrive here Friday at about 3 p.m.

They are the U.S.S. Calman, a submarine, captained by Cmdr. H. C. Reeves, and the naval reserve training ship U.S.S. Rombach, a destroyer escort commanded by Lt. W. T. Daven.

The Canadian cruiser H.M.C.S. Ontario is expected to dock at the naval base on Friday also. The Ontario has been carrying out training exercises in the Pacific after escorting the destroyer flotilla now at Pearl Harbor during their first two days out of Esquimalt.

FREIGHTER BURNS

Fire broke out in the bunkers of the Canadian freighter Yale County while she was docked in Durban, South Africa, and was still smoldering last night as dock workers hurried to get 600 tons of coal she was carrying taken off the ship.

Little progress in unloading her was made and it was reported that only 50 tons had been discharged from the ship last night.

Lloyd's registry lists the Yale

County as a 7,140-ton ship operated by the Vancouver-Orient Line, Ltd., and registered in Montreal. The Yale County, formerly named the Fort St. Regis, was built in Sorel, Quebec, in 1943.

ESTEVAN STARTS TRIP

The Department of Transport supply ship Estevan left here yesterday on her trip up the coast to visit department stations.

She will travel as far as Estevan Point.

Capt. Harry Ormiston is in charge of the ship.

IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE

Five hundred new Canadians stepped ashore at Quebec City last night when the 9,000-ton Canadian Pacific immigrant vessel Beaverbrook docked there.

The passengers consisted of immigrants coming to Canada under the sponsorship of the Canadian Christian Council and other groups. The Canadian Christian Council sponsored 341 of the immigrants; 74 are Mennonite workers and close relatives; 49 are Lutheran laborers and 37 are Austrian and German nationals.

They will travel to their destinations on a special 18-car C.P.R. train.

The majority of the new arrivals are destined for the three prairie provinces and Quebec and Ontario. Some will go to the Toronto-area and other Ontario points.

BOUND FOR CHURCHILL

The first of eight ocean freighters set to visit Port Churchill, Manitoba, during the 1950 season will arrive there July 28.

The ships will move wheat from the terminal elevator there to Britain and European continental ports. Some 1,700,000 bushels of wheat now is in storage and by the end of the month it is expected the 2,500,000-bushel elevator will be filled.

PERU-BOUND FOR TUNA

A Mex-Alaska freighter towed an ex-sailing schooner out of the port of Seattle yesterday and headed for a brand new tuna-and-sword-fishing venture off the coast of Peru. Now called the William Taylor, the old schooner has been converted to a refrigerated barge.

The tow craft is the Southeastern, which plied between Prince Rupert and Alaska a few years ago. The two ships are owned by Delmar Foods, Inc.

The company plans to freeze swordfish and tuna off the South American west coast. The swordfish will be frozen in fillets and shipped to Eastern United States markets, and the tuna will be brought back to Astoria, Oregon, for canning purposes.

TUNA SURVEY TO START

The annual pilgrimage by British Columbia fishermen to the haunts of the tuna fish will start here Friday.

The Victoria schooner Black Dog will head into the Pacific for both commercial and scientific purposes. Aboard her will be a member of the Fisheries Research Board, Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo.

Researcher John Partlo, only Canadian doing tuna research, will spend the summer on the Black Dog tagging about 1,000 of the white-fleshed fish.

A specially-designed hook with a spring locking device which releases automatically will enable the tagging to be done without having the fish leave the water.

It was invented by a North Vancouver man and is being perfected by Mr. Partlo.

Tuna were first discovered off Vancouver Island by Capt. Walter Redford in 1933 while he was on patrol for the fisheries service.

Good prices are usually paid for the fish, with the highest average recorded in 1948 at $650 per ton. It fell off in 1949 to $350 a ton, but this year fishermen expect the price to rise to about $400 a ton.

The tuna caught off British Columbia average around 16 pounds and are caught when trolling at about six knots. They are caught on the surface with a feather or plastic jig which is made to resemble a squid.

A number of other boats are readying their gear for the annual Tuna Hunt. Last year, 3,200,000 pounds of the "chicken of the sea" were landed at British Columbia ports.

INFANT MORTALITY

In 1948, only 44 of every 1,000 Canadian babies born alive died within a year, compared with the 1939 average of 61.

Story Brings "Deluge" Of Queries

Mrs. Faith Braiden, 35 Cambridge Street, said yesterday she had been "deluged" with queries following publication of a Colonist story about her plans to establish a pet cemetery.

She said she hopes to go ahead with the project. Now she is casting about for a suitable lot—possibly in Saanich. She will also have to clear the plan with zoning authorities.

The cemetery would be a non-profit venture, with a slight charge to cover expenses.

Mrs. Braiden, a widow, raises show Pomeranians, as well as canaries and love-birds. She is a former V.A.D. nurse, and holds a long-service medal from the St. John Ambulance Association.
